

SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL BEHAVIOR DEVELOPMENT IN YOUNG CHILDREN

At 48 months (4 years) . . .

- Your child likes to play with other children and has favorite games and playmates.
- Your child is beginning to share and take turns but is possessive of favorite toys and playthings.
- Your child expresses extreme emotions at times—laughs, cries, is silly, angry. She may be able to label her own feelings.
- When your child plays, he often uses real-life situations such as going to the store, school, and gas station.
- Your child may continue to have imaginary friends when playing games, sleeping at night, and going to preschool.
- Your child now understands home rules if they are short and simple.
- Your child is starting to understand danger and knows when to stay away from dangerous things.
- Your child loves silly jokes and has a sense of humor.
- Your child is beginning to control her feelings of frustration.
- Your child may use his imagination a lot, and he can be very creative.
- Your child is becoming more independent and adventurous and may be attracted to try new things.
- With her new independence, your child may be boastful and bossy at times.
- Your child may show concern and sympathy for younger siblings and playmates when they're hurt or upset. His ability to empathize—to put himself in someone else's shoes—is increasing.

SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL ACTIVITIES FOR YOUNG CHILDREN 48 MONTHS OLD (4 YEARS OLD)

| Introduce a new feeling each day using pictures, gestures, and words. Encourage your child to use a variety of words to describe how he feels.       | Encourage activities that involve sharing, such as blocks, crayons, playdough, acting out stories. Give your child lots of time to play with other children.                                 | Provide opportunities for your child to be creative. Empty containers, glue, newspapers, rubber bands, and magazines can be used for making new inventions. | Take your child to the store, to a restaurant or the library. Explore lots of new places.* Talk with her about similarities and differences in people.                       |
|--|--|---|--|
| When doing housework or yard work, allow your child to do a small part on her own. Let her empty the wastebasket or clean crumbs off the table.      | Talk with your child about possible dangers in your home, such as electrical outlets and stovetops. Talk about outdoor dangers, too, such as crossing the street or talking with strangers.* | Encourage your child's independence. Let him fix a sandwich like peanut butter and jelly. At bedtime, let him choose his clothes to wear the next day.      | Develop a conflict or argument with stuffed animals or puppets. Talk first about how the different animals are feeling. Discuss with your child how to resolve the conflict. |
| Tell a favorite nursery rhyme or story. Talk about what is make-believe and what is real.  | Using stuffed animals or play figures, create a party or group playtime. Play different people and talk about how they might feel and act.   | Tell a favorite nursery rhyme or story about "anger," and talk about positive ways the characters in the story resolved their differences.                  | Take your child to the library for story hour. She can learn about sitting in a group and listening to stories.  |
| Your child is learning more about rules but will still need reminders. Talk about your family rules. Keep rules short and simple, and be consistent. | Have simple props like old clothes, boxes, and plastic utensils for playing store, fire station, and school.   | Remember at least once a day to hug and cuddle and to praise your child for new skills—independence, creativity, expressing emotions, and sharing toys.     | Try to have clear routines during the day, and let your child know what will happen next. Have a reading time and quiet time each day.                                       |
